Gentlemen:

This organization has the responsibility for appraising the effects of air technology upon the offensive and defensive capabilities of foreign powers. In performance of this responsibility, it is recognized that the need exists for increased exploitation of foreign scientific and technical literature. To meet this need, this Center is desirous of obtaining information as to the present and potential capability of translation agencies for supplying foreign scientific and technical translation services.

The inclosed questionnaire was designed to provide this Center with the above particulars; any information gained from a reply will be treated in a confidential manner. You are requested to complete and return the questionnaire at your earliest convenience.

This letter is not to be construed as an invitation-to-bid, nor as a letter of intent. This is, rather, a survey to determine what present and potential resources are available and the kind of service each is capable of rendering.

Any additional information such as pamphlets, brochures, etc, concerning your agency, which you may have available, will be an aid in completing this survey. Your cooperation in this matter will be greatly appreciated.
